SEPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD, GUTTENBURG RACE TRACE, March & -Everyone expected to see a hard, dry track at Guttenburg to-day, and general surprise was expressed when it was seen to be covered with a coating of water and mud. The sun proved stronger than the cold wind and it had thoroughly melted the snow which had been mixed with the earth.

It was hard as iron, however, beneath the coating of water. When the horses warmed up they m de no impression on the track. The card presented to-day was a very good one, including as it did a high class handicap and a race for the babies. Scratches were few in each of the events, and a large field came to the post in the first. Longevity and Renounce opened even favorites for the first race, and when the latter went to 4 to 1 he was well played down to 3 to 1 and Renounce won handly, though with a stronger boy up Rememirance might have given him a harder race. He swerved by in the election, and yet was only beaten a neek. Longerity, vigorously rideo, was third.

Marie Loveli, on her past performances, was an odd-son favorite for the secono race, but a lot of money went on Peril, who, with Hughey Penny up, was regarded as a good tring.

A. O. H. was well backed for find place, and the others were not backed for find place, and the others were not backed for any extent.

DEFAULTER'S GAIN IN FORM

There was very good racing at Gutter yesterday, and every man went home satisfied, from all appearances, that the best horse won in every event. There were many who lost ey, however. The reverants in form, which have been the rule at Guttenburg during past wrek, rattled the talent badly, and they took to backing long about with the ex-pectation that favorites were to be defeated. Yesterday only two favorites won, but other victors were well backed, and the bookies did not reap any harvest. It was a pleasure though to see the best horses win. Fairne everything is what the American sports desires most to see. Crookedness will kill any sport. The attendance at Guttenburg has Whether this is doe to the in-and-out running of the past week, it is hard to say, but the fact still remains. Unremitting watchfulness on the part of the officials will, however, bring things around in proper channels once more
